Publishing Research in English as an Additional Language Margaret Cargill, Sally Burgess, 2017-07-13 Many universities worldwide now require established and novice scholars, as well as PhD students, to publish in English in international journals. This growing trend gives rise to multiple interrelated questions, which this volume seeks to address through the perspectives of a group of researchers and practitioners who met in Coimbra, Portugal in 2015 for the PRISEAL and MET conferences. The volume offers truly global coverage, with chapters focusing on vastly different geo-social areas, and disciplines from the humanities to the hard sciences. It will be of interest to applied linguists, particularly those working in the area of English for Research Publication Purposes, and to language professionals working in research writing support, research supervision and academic publishing, as well as to journal editors and managers.

The Ultimate Context Lazar Sretenovic, 2023-08-29 IN A BEGINNING ... Is it possible that a Jewish prophet, seven centuries before Christ, revealed the key that unlocks the cosmic mystery of life and laid the cornerstone of Biblical theodicy? In the peculiar work that is The Ultimate Context, Lazar Sretenovic posits a scripture-sound, universe-encasing perspective for consciousness appearing in space and time, in human form. Offering theologically provocative insights in an exhibition of unbound thinking and an evocative language of symbols and patterns, the work presents an original interpretive paradigm, inviting the conceptually intrepid to re-examine conclusions about: • Divine creativity principle • • Ultimate beginning and telos of all things • • God's essence and character • • Origin of evil • Free will • • Unified 66-book Bible

Price Stabilization on World Agricultural Markets Bernd Lucke, 2012-12-06 International commodity markets have traditionally attracted the attention of economists, econometricians, and policy makers especially in and following politically tumultuous times. For instance, the primary commodity price boom of 1973/74 and the subsequent period of highly volatile world market prices initiated increased research on commodity markets which quickly focused on possible price stabilization schemes, particularly on buffer stocks. Simultaneously, the issue clearly advanced in priority on the political agenda, such that the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development (UNCTAD) proposed an Integrated Program for Commodities (IPC) intended to stabilize the world market prices of ten so-called core commodities (UNCTAD (1974, 1976a), Behrman (1979)). Many developing nations welcomed the IPC almost enthusiastically, but it did not receive more than lukewarm support by major industrialized countries, apparently due to the experience with some thirty international commodity agreements past World War II². Critical evaluations have, among others, been presented by McNicol (1978), Gordon-Ashworth (1984), and Macbean & Nguyen (1987). The most detailed of these studies is Gordon-Ashworth's, who concludes that on balance ... the performance of international commodity agreements has been too unreliable and their distributive effects too uneven to secure the development goals that have been set (1984, p. 284)³. Consequently, the IPC turned out to be quite controversial a topic on the UNCTAD's 1976 meeting in Nairobi and has not been able to gain any impetus since.
